

Here are two composers, Grieg and Debussy. I tried to choose a stance and expression that conveyed their different characters. Debussy appeared to be a poised and confident person, whereas Grieg seemed to be a rather frail and childlike personality. I tried to show that he was rather small by putting him in a chair that was too big for him.